

Answers to the session “Preparing for the Quizzes”

1. A port is a communication port usually associated as a service for a service (application service).
2. ifconfig
3. /etc/sysconfig/iptables
4. UDP uses a simple transmission protocol that lacks the methods to prevent loss of data that TCP has.
5. 547
6. Associates service names to port numbers.
7. Associates IP ADDRESS to host name.
8. Stores configuration and option information for eth0 network connection.
9. netstat